TIPP 10

New: TIPP10 Online
Learn 10-finger touch typing directly in the browser

With the new online version of TIPP10 you can practice and learn the ten-finger system directly in your browser! And just as easily and efficiently as with our software version. We've made sure of that. And of course the online version is also completely free of charge!

In order to use TIPP10 Online simply register free of charge at:
https://www.tipp10.com

Since the first release of TIPP10 six years ago for Windows, Mac OS and Linux a lot has changed. We've invested lots of work and time in TIPP10 in order to develop on from the initial idea of creating an intelligent dictation system into a comprehensive 10-finger touch typing tutor that can stand out from comparable software.

The work was worth it:
The free and cross-platform open-source software TIPP10 has spread quickly and has already registered more than 2 million downloads. User feedback has been consistently positive and TIPP10 is now being used successfully in many schools and universities. In November 2011 TIPP10 was rated best in tests by Stiftung Warentest (a well-known German test institute). The fact that TIPP10 managed to win out over all the commercial products is a great motivation for us. We want to make working at the computer easier and more efficient for as many people as possible. With our new online version we are taking a further step in that direction.

The online version was written in Javascript, therefore there is no need for additional plugins like Flash or Java. We will also publish a special version for schools and companies soon, and a version for LMS systems like Moodle.

You can find press material like logos and screenshots at http://www.tipp10.com/en/press/and on Facebook at http://www.facebook.com/tipp10.en